

Map Sheet: 2016 Otjiwarongo: Original proposed (blue) route

Photo 11: Progressing north-eastwards from Gerus, the vegetation is Thornbush savanna on wide open flats. However there are patches of dense, taller trees that were still green in July 2004 - the time of the helicopter flight. Such patches should be avoided as far as possible.
